Lush!

Horses look like stuffed ticks. Also they are wearing stuffed ticks.

New horse Lanni is in pasture, has been for a couple of weeks. She's hiding out a bit from the rest of the herd.

Tosca is coming in tomorrow to use John's space as an experiment to see if she can handle it. She's old friends with Lanni so there's hope that she'll help

Work parties have done a lot of work on grass plugs, solarization project is next.

New Business

Breakfast Ride #2!

There was a breakfast and a ride, but it was somewhat abortive due to the rain. Ashley soloed the ride with Jim and their dog in attendance. Gary learned a new word – “savory”.

Would like to plan a redux – Monday Memorial Day suggested. Gather at 8, ride at 9, brunch at 11, scurry home and take a tick bath.

Next Meeting at the arena June 21th 6:00 potluck, meeting at 7:30.

Move to adjourn, Lynn moved and Karen seconded that emotion.

Dear Breakfast Riders:

Just had a beautiful breakfast ride and all made it back safe and sound!

These pics show Rosie leading the group. Ashley is trying to keep up and acting as sweep. Rosie was trotting so enthusiastically that she passed right by Jim and Otter without seeing them, who were at their turn around point enjoying the view.

We had a warm welcome upon our return home.

Thanks for the yummy food and let me know if you want to come my way for a ride in Briones or Point Reyes.

Enjoying the trails at Breakfast Ride II

When we decided to give it another shot, Breakfast Ride II was a great success. 14 riders and about 20 potluckers, and no rain!!☺ We were joined on the trail by about 50 boy scouts gearing up for their big hike this summer!

MHA knows how to do food!

Claudio on his first group ride!

Jenni after Claudio jumped the creek onto Jenni's foot☹

Jerry Tindell Clinic September 23-25
